PodioBox is the all-in-one system for managing and performing presentations in a fast and easy way without software installation. This new-generation product solves all hardware/software compatibility issues.

In addition to the standard set of presentation tools, PodioBox offers planners:

- Savings, thanks to automatic videocasting recording
- An unlimited number of multiple beamers and digital signage situated in different rooms and with the same or different content, without cabling
- Capability of enabling remote speakers to perform a presentation without external video conference software
- The latest updated version of presentations thanks to Google Slides integration
- Easy management of local and online video during performance thanks to YouTube integration

- Use of any device browser (PC, laptop, tablet, smartphone, Apple Watch)
- Simple integration of PodioBox in an existing presentation system

In addition, PodioBox offers the “standard interactive package” such as slides and document-sharing, polling and surveying (with an unlimited number of questions and results in real time), feedback from attendees about the current arguments of the speaker in real-time, digital handouts and agendas, reporting, speaker’s notes, integration with Google Docs, Slideshare, Dropbox, YouTube, live video streaming and more.

PodioBox empowers you to manage performance from one single epicenter. Unlike other presentation tools, PodioBox provides a ready-to-use multilevel solution saving you both money and time.
